feeling good by nature

Clothing is best, when you hardly have to think about it. When it feels comfortable on your skin, keeps you warm without weighing you down and simply moves with you.

For over 40 years, ENGEL has been designing clothes made from virgin merino wool and silk for babies, children and adults. Natural materials with special gifts: temperature-regulating, incredibly soft, breathable and comfortable to wear – indoors and outdoors, all year round.

This creates long-lasting favourites that feel light and show us every day again just how comfortable nature can be.

High-Tech ^{by} nature

Natural comfort — whether indoors or outdoors.

The exclusive, animal-friendly and sustainably sourced virgin merino wool has superpowers. In this unique blend of wool and silk, these characteristics are utilised even more effectively. The natural qualities that make the sheep in Argentina and Uruguay so resilient are:

The temperature-regulating effect:

Incredibly soft and fine wool, to which Merino sheep owe their famous renowned resilience. In their natural habitat, there are sometimes severe changes in the weather, but thanks to their wool, this does not affect the Merino sheep: Against the cold, the finely crimped wool fibres are particularly effective, as they retain natural body heat. When it gets hot, however, the fibres can absorb a lot of body moisture and wick it to the outside, providing a cooling effect. Additionally thanks to its very fine fibres, the wool is always comfortable and soft against the skin; even those sensitive to wool enjoy snuggling up in it. The wool/silk blend not only enhances comfort, but also supports the temperature-regulating effect. A natural high-tech fibre for truly every requirement. And every weather condition.

Low maintenance and easy to care for:

Clothing goes through a lot. It must be durable, flexible and comfortable. But also, easy to care for. Virgin merino wool fibres, whether with or without silk, manage this effortlessly thanks to their ultra-fine crimped — one might say 'high-tech' — fibre structure. This fine structure also provides the typically pleasant feel against the skin, whilst the silk makes it all even softer and smoother to wear.

Dirt particles hardly find any grip on the fibre surface, which is why wool is considered dirt-repellent. It is usually sufficient to air the garment and brush off the dried dirt. This saves a lot on washing and water.

Locally sourced, sustainable and ethically produced.

Our wonderful virgin merino wool comes from sheep that graze freely in the open countryside of South America. In our latest locwool collection, the wool actually comes from Southern Germany. It really doesn't get any more local than that. Once the yarn has arrived at our premises, every next step is processed in Pfullingen and in the nearby Swabian Alb by specialised small business partners. This is important to us, as we wish to maintain a friendly and fair relationship with everyone involved in the creation of our clothing. That, too, is sustainable.

Mulesing-free by nature.
Because our sheep live in South America.
There, the flies that are the reason for the controversial practice of mulesing simply do not exist.

Quality, nature and people in harmony.

Engel is a family business that puts your needs and, at the same time, those of our mother earth at the heart of everything we do. Get inspired by our passion for quality and sustainability and become part of our community.

For over 90 years, we have used only high-quality, certified materials that are good for you and for our environment. That is where quality (of life) comes naturally.

Textiles for a better tomorrow.

We produce as people who know each other personally – socially, inclusively and to the highest standard.

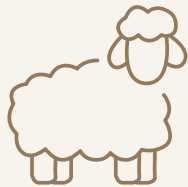

We love the results we achieve, which we work on as a team – from the designer to the seamstress and from the buyer to the warehouse manager. When confident men sew buttons and clever women plan favourite pieces and everything just runs smoothly, then that's more than just work for us. We stand for short supply chains, fair working conditions and the very best quality. This is how textile manufacturing still works in Germany today!

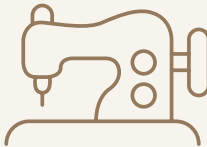

The Schönberg Tower, the landmark of our hometown Pfullingen, is lovingly known by locals as the 'Underpants'. Can that be a coincidence?

You can count on us.

Organic merino wool from South America
The origin of our products and the welfare of the animals is close to our hearts. The controversial mulesing practice does not exist in South America and the sheep live in particularly animal-friendly conditions.

Sewn in Pfullingen
The seamstresses and tailors work directly with us and in small businesses we've built long relationships with. Fair wages and long-standing partnerships are investments that pay off. We preserve centuries-old traditions in our region and demonstrate that sustainable textile production is still possible in Germany.

Made with heart and soul
From the first draft, when we turn our sketches into production-ready designs and mix colours, right through to the final touch, until the last button is sewn on – we live for what we do. And for that, we will always go the extra mile. Yet, we do admit: It's simply great fun too!

A summer-and-winter all-rounder
Merino wool regulates temperature for a comfortable feel. The fibres' natural crimp creates small air pockets, known as climate chambers, in which air can circulate. In cold weather, body heat is stored within them; in hot weather, the excess heat is released. This prevents overheating.

Environmentally friendly materials
From knitting the yarn into fabric up to the finishing process, which means the further processing, we carry out all our work using only environmentally friendly and strictly tested, certified materials. From gentle detergents to long-lasting reactive dyes: The less chemistry the better.

Interlock

by nature

Our long time trusted combination of merino wool and silk – now also available in thick interlock knit quality.

You can feel it straight away: this fabric is different. We have expanded our collection to include a new type of fabric. Interlock is a special knitting technique that combines the best of our natural fibres: 70% Virgin Wool, 30% Silk – creating a quality, you won't find anywhere else.

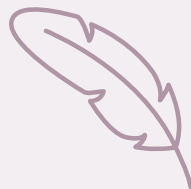

No synthetic fibres, no compromises. Instead, substance: the double-faced interlock knit ensures greater density, shape and durability. It drapes beautifully, hugs the body perfectly and is ideal for layering. Above all, however, it is as soft as butter – perfect for sensitive skin and a wonderful feel against the skin. A particularly high-quality fabric for clothing that is also made to last for generations to come.

Naturally, what defines us also applies to this new fabric: Made in Germany, GOTS-certified and consistently natural – from the first thread to the last stitch.

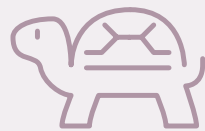

Ideal for babies and children

Soft, skin-friendly and free from unnecessary extras – the perfect quality for delicate skin.

Soft and smooth to the touch

Interlock fabrics are knitted particularly finely – the result is a smooth, closed surface that feels pleasantly soft against the skin. Ideal for sensitive skin and maximum comfort.

Sturdy and durable

Despite its soft feel, interlock is hard-wearing and durable. A long-lasting material – that fits with the philosophy of sustainable clothing.

High shape stability

Thanks to the special knitting technique, interlock is stretchable yet keeps its shape. The garments stay in form – even after frequent washing and use.

Warm and comfortable to wear

Interlock is denser than our usual wool silk fine rib and therefore, provides light insulation. Perfect for colder days – without feeling heavy.

With practical press studs for extra-easy nappy changing.

Clothes should be able to withstand the little ones' urge to move. So that babies can stretch out comfortably, discover their little hands and feet, and always remain protected, warm and cosy. That's what motivates us to get up for work every morning.

Merino wool and silk have natural super-powers that work to their full potential thanks to careful processing: the wool wicks moisture away from the baby's well-regulated skin and ensures a perfect skin climate. At the same time the fine fibre structure retains the body's own warmth and ensures ultimate cosiness. And of course, babies do get messy sometimes. But that's no problem: wool is naturally dirt-repellent and antibacterial; often, letting it air out and brushing it gently is enough. Wool and silk with a UV protection factor of 22 – 50+ are ideally suited for natural sun protection.

The locwool collection by ENGEL is made from regional sheep's wool sourced from Southern Germany. Animal welfare, transparent traceability and fair pay for shepherds are at the heart of the collection. The wool is mulesing-free, robust, temperature-regulating and breathable – made for durable clothing that works in everyday life. At the same time, every piece contributes to the preservation of traditional sheep farming and long-established cultural landscapes.

As only limited quantities of regional wool are available, the collection is deliberately limited – once it's gone, it's gone.

Warmth starts at the head.

Babies lose a large proportion of their body heat through their heads – in newborns, this can be as much as 30 %. A soft hat therefore helps to stabilise their temperature whilst also protecting them from the wind and cold. ENGEL's baby hats are made from natural fibres that are breathable and gently regulate moisture. This keeps the head comfortable and warm without overheating.

Fits perfectly, doesn't slip and offers particularly good protection for the ears.

A particularly sensitive topic.

Our unique merino wool and silk blend also shows its strengths in breastfeeding products. They are particularly soft and kind to the skin. In the double-sided version, the wool side is suitable for warming and absorbing liquid, while the silk has a wound-healing effect and is gentle on stressed skin.

Easy by nature

Whether while running wild in the garden or having secret meetings in the treehouse, whether imagining animals in the clouds or romping through the meadows: children should always feel comfortable in Engel clothing.

The natural properties of our clothing protect against overheating and getting too cold, so you don't have to worry. The children are dressed well and the washing machine can stay empty for a change. Often, it's enough to simply air out the clothes after a successful day full of adventures. After all, dirt and bacteria hardly stick to the wool fibres. So just brush them off, and the jacket is ready for the next adventure.

Equally important, the beautiful colours and timeless designs look absolutely lovely on the little ones. Dressed like this, nothing stands in the way of further adventures through the neighbourhood.

The natural superpowers of wool and silk combined in a T-shirt – absorbs moisture without feeling damp and protects against UV rays.

A photograph of three people in a textile workshop. A man in a light blue t-shirt stands in the center, leaning over a table and pointing at a piece of fabric. To his left, a woman with curly brown hair and a beige jacket sits at the table, smiling. To his right, a woman with dark curly hair and a white top stands, also smiling. The background is filled with racks of various fabrics and garments. The word 'swabian' is written in a white, lowercase, sans-serif font over the man's chest.

by
nature

Our seamstresses and tailors at the foot of the Swabian Alb work under the best conditions – for themselves and for our products. This enables us to guarantee good wages, healthy working hours and, therefore, the very best products.

We work hand in hand and across generations with our sewing, finishing and processing partners in the local area. The secret to our success: we treat each other as equals. We ensure a highly motivated, professional and consistent supply chain. This results in the finest fabrics, both high-quality and sustainable. Short transport routes and a flexible network even make production in Germany economically viable.

The core message of our natural clothing is a simple promise and we stick to it: good clothing for a positive life – for both, customers, and the people behind it.

Environmentally conscious yet stylish – our lace top combines elegant design with sustainability. For a modern look.

Essential by nature

For us, the highest quality means that all fibres are dyed and processed in such a way that their natural, wonderful properties are preserved as effectively as possible. Genuine, sustainable production begins with the loving and humane care of the sheep.

We ensure the highest quality at every stage of production. The entire production chain is transparent, and we have our certifications for it regularly and independently verified. The most important thing for our clothing has been, for over 40 years, to produce in a consistent sustainable, fair and healthy way. Because we all deserve it!

A minimalist essential for any capsule wardrobe – soft, comfortable and versatile.

by
nature

We believe that fashion should be timeless and always be allowed to reinvent itself. That's why we focus on designs that are easy to mix and match, in soft colours and clean cuts.

Good design and beautiful fashion isn't made for just one season – or the bin. Would you agree with us?

We've been practising slow fashion with genuine natural clothing for a long time, long before it became a trend. Sustainability is when good materials become long-lasting companions. Once you've found your casual look, with your favourite basics and subtle details, which are also warm, comfortable and easy to care for, why keep shopping? Exactly. So, rather clothes for life. And by the way: Good materials can also be repaired.

Timeless, classic, casual – for everyseason ...

From scraps we create something new.

Scraps of fabric are inevitable during textile production – and they are far too valuable not to be reused. That's why we give them a second life: as lovingly crafted plants, for example, that not only decorate rooms, but also demonstrate our appreciation for our materials, nature and circular processes. Or as a colourful pennant string for a kids' room. Natural. Beautiful. Sustainable.

Material

Our items can be machine washed on the wool setting. This is thanks to the award-winning finish Naturetexx®, which uses no harmful or toxic chemicals whatsoever. The natural properties of the fibres are retained.

As ever, our wool consists of 100% organic merino wool.

Availability

Because our designs are timeless and our production chain is so reliable, retailers can order and receive deliveries of all articles from stock all year round.

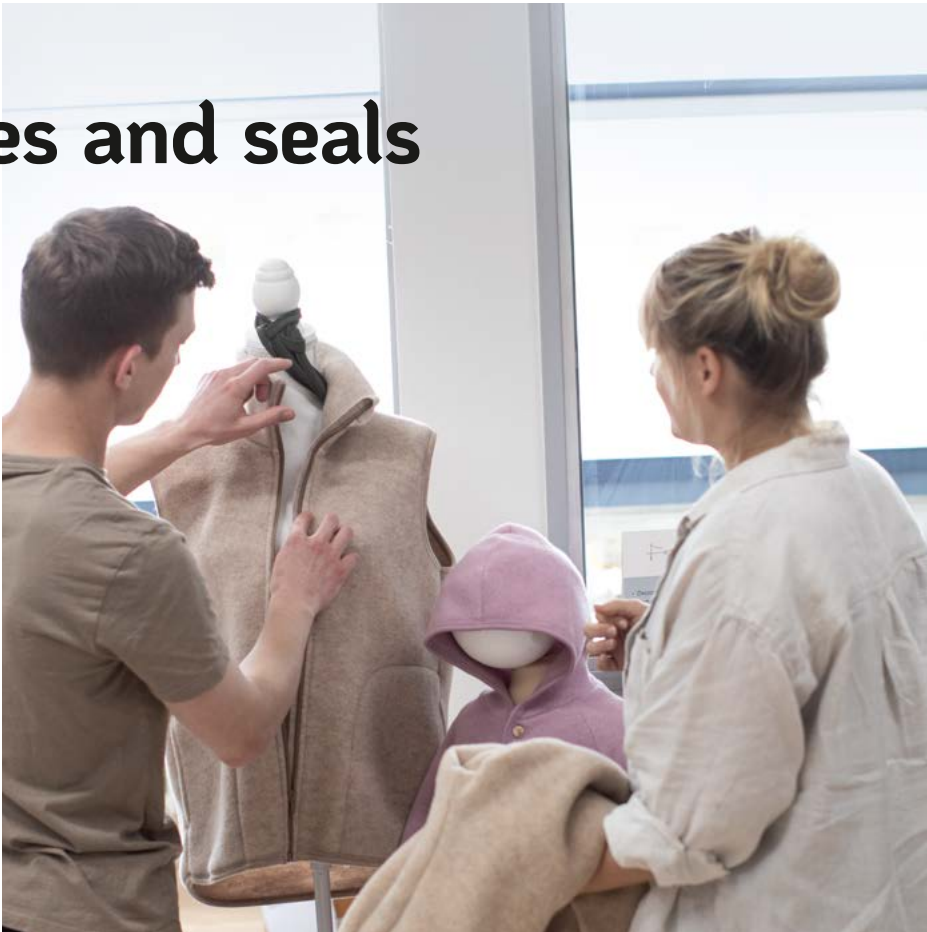

Certificates and seals

Made in Germany

We produce our clothing exclusively in Germany in accordance with the highest ecological and social criteria.

Naturally, we obtain our electricity from renewable sources. We have solar panels on the roof and the rest of the power we need is hydroelectric power. And we don't use fossil fuels for heating.

IVN BEST (Lic. no. IVN BEST: 151702)

The "NATURTEXTIL IVN zertifiziert BEST" (IVN BEST) quality symbol is awarded to textiles that are made completely from organically produced natural fibres. The certification takes into account all the environmental effects of the entire production process, from production of the fibres to the finished garment, along with the prescribed social welfare standards in the companies involved in the process.

In terms of environmental compatibility, social sustainability and credibility, IVN BEST meets the highest ecological standards that can currently be achieved in the textile industry.

GOTS (Lic. no. GOTS: 151702)

Textiles that are made from at least 70% to 100% organically produced natural fibres are eligible for the award of the Global Organic Textile Standard (GOTS). Certification of products is based on fulfilment of environmental requirements along the entire textile production chain plus compliance with social welfare criteria. The GOTS requirements are slightly below those of IVN BEST.

suitable by nature

What do babies, children and adults have in common when it comes to feeling good? Exactly, the clothes have to fit.

At Engel, we attach great importance to good cuts that combine maximum freedom of movement, climate zones and visually appealing shapes. Engel clothing moulds to the body and is designed for freedom of movement.

Of course, the size must also be chosen correctly. To make ordering as accurate as possible, we make every effort to keep the sizes constant and comparable. In this table you can compare both the German sizes and the corresponding international age specifications.
